"MOMENTS OF MAGIC WILL GLOW IN THE NIGHT,
ALL FEARS OF THE FOREST ARE GONE
TIL WHEN THE MORNING BREAKS
THEY'RE SWEPT AWAY BY GOLDEN DROPS OF DAWN OF CHANGES."
(FROM "OF CHANGES")

The school year has come to an end. We close our books and lock our doors for the last time. We should be able to grab our diplomas and scurry home, grateful for our deliverance. But we can't. The last four years of our lives won't let us.

During that time, we lived many new experiences and met some challenges. Content and restlessness wrestled with each other; sorrow and joy paid visits, too. Through it all, Cathedral--faculty and students--was there, never nagging or prying, but encouraging. The good done by knowing that someone, somewhere, cares--that good cannot be measured.

The end of this school year also marks the end of this school, which, since its founding, has meant many things to many people. But in the end, it has always been a generator of the person, a school of thought in the truest sense. The greatest success, the biggest trophy, the widest acclaim that any school can hope to attain is the very discernable ability to produce students who can think. This will always be Cathedral's most outstanding characteristic.

Though only the test of time will tell Cathedral's influence on its men, still one thing is sure: their conduct will live on, long after their books will have been closed. But to those of us of the final class, its inspiration will always be special. If, in the years to come, someone happens to exclaim, partly in jest, "Don't tell me Cathedral's still in business?"--we're sure to have a ready answer: It sure as Hell is!
